Film: “13th”
Tuesday, April 25, 12 - 3 p.m., in Gould Memorial Library [GM] Auditorium
Join us for a screening of this groundbreaking, original film co-written (with Spencer Averick) and directed by Ava DuVernay, which analyzes the criminalization of African-Americans and the U.S. prison boom. The 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution abolished slavery. But it also included a provision many people don’t know about and that is what this documentary brings to view. “Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist.” That exception justifies the use of forced labor as long as the laborer is a convict. This documentary makes the case that inclusion of this loophole is only one of the justifications for continuing domination of people of color.

Following the film, we will have a discussion on the film’s topics with Dr. Byron Price, Professor at Medgar Evers College and author of “Merchandizing Prisoners: Who Really Pays for Prison Privatization,” Ms. Rocio Silverio, National Coordinator for the Black Immigration Network, a project of Black Alliance for Just Immigration (“BAJI”), as well as other experts in this area.
