Way to Go, Lady Broncos!

Congratulations to the Lady Broncos women's basketball team for winning their first ever City University of New York Athletic Conference (CUNYAC) championship with a 69-58 victory over Queensborough Community College! By taking the title, the team avenged a decisive loss to the Tigers in last year's championship game. Credit goes to the talent, perseverance and teamwork of the Lady Broncos players, coaches and staff, including 2015 CUNYAC Player of the Year Hivelize Escobar and freshman All-Star Trisha Toussaint, who was injured in the championship-winning game and accepted the trophy from a wheelchair. It's worth noting that under Coach Pete Cepeda, no athlete has ever been dropped from the team for not making the grade in their studies as well. GO BRONCOS!

Art Exhibit

Now through Wednesday, March 18, 11 a.m. - 4 p.m., in Bliss Hall [BL], Hall of Fame Art Gallery

Join us as we welcome artist William “Emor” Askew Jr., a traveling artist who has kicked off “Cardboard Auctions,” his project to help raise homelessness awareness. Many people walk by homeless people without so much as a glance. Others look on, believing it could never happen to them. Nothing could be further from the truth. Emor’s project began in January 2014 on the frigid streets of New York City, where he spent time meeting and sketching, drawing and painting portraits on pieces of cardboard of people living on the streets. He has returned to NYC to continue his work. For more information about the artist, follow @eatmore88 on Twitter, Artist Emor on Facebook or visit his website artistemor.daportfolio.com.
